Democrats Reply With Sarcasm To Al Smith's Plea to Delegates

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—(AP) With blunt emphasis, democratic leaders today put aside Alfred E. Smith's advice that the national convention select President Roosevelt's bid for re-election.

Claims of increased London support emanated from high places in the republican party, but from New Deal leaders came a series of statements generally pointedly satirical.

At Topeka, Kan., the republican presidential nominee, Governor Landon, said "the line of demarcation between fealty to party and loyalty to country is something for each citizen to determine himself."

To Smith's request the convention drop Roosevelt and choose a "genuine democrat," Chairman James A. Farley, of the democratic national committee responded crisply:

"This convention will nominate a genuine democrat, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Colonel Frank Knox, the republican vice presidential nominee, envisaged increased backing for the Landon-Knox ticket.

"The bolt of Mr. Smith . . . will withdraw further supporters from the President," he said.

Governor Lehman, of New York, said he thought the Smith statement represented "the feelings of only a handful of democrats."

Other comment: "He added that the rank and file of the party and the nation's independents were strongly for the chief executive."

Norman Thomas, socialist presidential nominee: "I think the Smith letter is substantially the equivalent of another Liberty League speech by him."

Senator Byrnes, democrat, South Carolina: "It's just too bad that Smith and Reed (former Senator Reed, of Missouri) can't forget the Chicago convention. Once a man placed in nomination is defeated he never forgets it."

Representative O'Connor, democrat,

New York: "I do not believe Al Smith had anything to do with that statement, but I believe the others who signed it are running true to form."

Senator McAdoo, democrat, California: "Those fellows effaced themselves as democrats so long ago that I don't think they are in any position to make recommendations to us."

Senator Black, democrat, Alabama: "The next thing we will get is advice from President Shouse, of the Liberty League."

Senator O'Mahoney, democrat, Wyoming: "The delegates won't ever take a walk—not will the millions of voters."

Governor Graves, of Alabama: "It is the irrepressible egotism of people who won't play the same unless they can be captain."

Governor Chandler, of Kentucky: "The people have shown they have confidence in President Roosevelt."

Governor White, of Mississippi: "Al Smith's ill-tempered denunciation won't create a ripple in the solid ranks of democracy."

Attorney General Wilentz, of New Jersey: "Smith took a walk in 1932 and has been taking it ever since."

Frank Wickham, of Sioux City, Iowa, president of the National Young Democratic Clubs: "He (Smith) does not think along the same lines as the Al Smith I supported in 1928."

NYE MAY 'TAKE WALK' FROM REPUBLICANS

North Dakota Senator Dissatisfied With Platform of Party.

(Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.) PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—(UP) Reports that Senator Gerald P. Nye, republican, North Dakota, would "take a walk" from the republican party because of its failure to endorse a strong neutrality plank, created considerable interest here tonight on the eve of the opening of the democratic national convention.

Nye denied the reports vigorously when reached in Washington by the United Press.

Nevertheless, the rumors that he would join with Senator George W. Norris, republican, Nebraska, and other senate liberals, persisted in hotel corridors where every delegate has a plank for the party platform.

Among the reports was one that Nye, who will attend the conference of progressives called by Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, to study the two party platforms, would make his announcement at that time.

Nye submitted a far-reaching neutrality plank to the G. O. P. resolutions committee in Cleveland. It was badly emasculated by the platform makers. Nye made no secret of his disappointment.

He has persistently demanded nationalization of the American munitions industry; a ban on sanctions by a government in peace against a government at war and the doctrine that one who travels on alien ships in time of war does so at his own risk and is not entitled to the protection of the United States government.

The republican plank was largely a reiteration of the party's stand on neutrality while specifying methods of safeguarding it in time of war.

Nye headed a special senate committee which made an exhaustive study of the munitions industry. He incurred the wrath of Senator Carter Glass, democrat, Virginia, and other old-line democrats when he accused former President Woodrow Wilson of having falsified facts about secret treaties reappearing European territory before the United States entered the World War.

Nye is an extreme liberal. He has supported President Roosevelt in most of the New Deal's emergency program.

PATRONAGE DEFENDED BY WOMEN-DEMOCRATS

Farley's Men Declared More Alert Than Civil Service Employees.

By BESS FURMAN. PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—(AP) Pennsylvania's Emma Guiley Miller turned a League of Women Voters luncheon into a debate today with a scorching defense of Postmaster General Farley and the administration patronage system.

Her speech, which topped the activities of conventioning women for the day, contained such sentences as: "People would have died of starvation in the streets if we'd put PWA, WPA and the CCC under civil service."

"In Washington, I find out, once in civil service you feel safe for life and that he need do nothing but punch the time clock. There is no top speed under civil service."

"Under this 'terrible man Farley' there are 242 democratic postal inspectors to 343 republicans. Give us a fair hearing."

She told a story now and then that got a laugh but otherwise the league members sat and listened in stony-faced silence.

Then they argued back briefly. Mrs. Henry Goddard Leach said her "five long years as chairman of the New York league was no swivel chair job; it was a League of Women Voters program; unemployment insurance and the lame duck amendment as reforms the league had helped to bring about; and said she hoped the league members would "always see to it that they are a step ahead of government."

Said Mrs. Larnie Brown, of Boston: "It is true the league hopes for accomplishments more rapidly than the professional politicians. She urged on the leaguers renewed zeal in riding their parties of patronage."

Mrs. Miller, committee member for her state and one of its democratic senators, started her speech with: "I am a politician."

Loyalty to F. D. R. Still Holds Despite Bitter Attacks by Foes

By WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE. (Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—It is now a matter of hours until the democratic national convention shall open. Four days have passed since the crowds began to assemble here, delegates, spectators, alternates, hangers-on, the usual camp following which every great convention attracts. During these four days nothing has happened here.

Two events have crashed from the outside, the Al Smith bolt, the Townsend-Coughlin party revolt. Here, their effect, so far as the surface of things goes, is absolutely nothing. No one goes about the corridors of the hotels smashing a fist in a palm and raising his voice denouncing Smith and his co-revolters. So far as one can observe, neither the delegates nor the spectators, nor the alternates, nor the camp followers, exhibit any emotional reaction as a result of the left wing break.

Platform Modified. A fairly well authenticated rumor comes from Washington that the democratic platform has been modified in its farm plank and in its currency plank to meet the demands of the Lemke-Townsend-Coughlin party. No one is interested in knowing whether the rewritten planks of the platform will take the party to the right or the left. No one thinks of questioning the wisdom of the high command. No one presumes to answer Al Smith and his fellow democrats. That also is left to the "all highest."

Yet to refer to Roosevelt as the "Messiah" and this convention as the "second coming," which are current jibes of the unfriendly reporters, is unfair. Distinctly this is not a crowd of Roosevelt idolaters. They do not not believe in him. But they are not an attitude of adoration. These democrats merely accept him, casually, but absolutely.

No Dislike Shows. No reporter has been able to find any delegate or any visiting democratic statesman of any degree of prominence who is willing to say, even behind closed doors and with bated breath, that he distrusts or dislikes the President. Yet it is not a sacrilege to jeer at him.

This is a most curious attitude, a psychological phenomenon, the like of which has never been before in American public life for a generation. No other President has had this casual but complete acceptance inside the party.

The first Roosevelt created a schism in his party, so that even his first nomination came only at the end of a bitter, but not spirited, contest. The congressional leaders desired to nominate Joe Cannon or Fairbanks, and they accepted Roosevelt's nomination with a very face and nominated Fairbanks for vice president more or less to spite him. In 1908 Roosevelt again had a struggle, which, though short, but not spirited, contest.

But wealth charged the air of both conventions. People damned the first Roosevelt. But he had idolaters. Grover Cleveland, whom his followers accepted as a demigod, had enemies who loathed him. Wilson's second nomination was not accelerated with such political goose grease as F. D. R. has put under the side of his victory here this week. This calm, even, placid negotiation of both opposition and admiration which one finds in the convention today, this menacely unanimity which presages heaven only knows what portent is curious—more than curious, it is a mystery.

Bitter Enemies. Is it a calm before a political storm? The dangerous serenity of this convention is not evidence of national agreement with the President. Probably at no time in the last three years has Mr. Roosevelt developed so many bitter, vociferous and altogether powerful enemies as he has today outside of his party. Moreover, if one accepts a conservative democracy as a part of the New Deal party, one may say he has never had so many enemies inside of his party as today.

Yet, take a look at any state delegation, break it down into its various jobholders. Probably such a piece of research would show that the average delegate is on the pay roll at about $4,000 or $5,000 a year. Probably the pay roll of the convention, if computed in terms of annual salaries, would amount to $4,500,000.

Adoring Cheers. Each delegate, sitting in each of the five sections of the convention, is likely to emit at least five adoring cheers per session—25 in all. Divide $4,500 by 25 and you get the net cost per yell, which is all right; but not in terms of emotion. You can buy yells. You can subsidize noise. You can even purchase a fairly considerable amount of blind adoration, but you can't buy this—this even, unquestioning loyalty that pervades the convention.

The pay roll explanation fails to explain it. It is a state of mind. Twilight sleep? Possibly. Narcotic, suspended animation? Political amnesia? Something like that. But what really is it?

These questions are set down without animus. They are a reporter's questions and not a partisan criticism. Here is a new and disquieting mental state which is about to accept every possible detail of a great national convention from the hands of one man, who is not cast as a God-like hero, whose failing his followers casually acknowledge—but only casually—whose limitations they do not question, but whose judgment in this hour they accept not blindly but with a certain vague, half-conscious fixation. This is not the way men follow leaders. It is a symptom of something new. It is a disease or a sleeper waking in the dawn of a new day? Well, this affiant saith not.

But all the same, it is a show to write home about. The hotels are packed to the eaves. The streets are filled with riotous men and women having a time verging pleasantly between hysteria and dementia praecox. Squawking radios are howling terrible campaign songs all over the place or belching imbecile speeches in the echoing canyons around the political headquarters.

Police sirens have been howling three days and night and the devil has been rattling his chains in a thousand fiendish noises that ought to drive men crazy; but, instead of that, out of this bedlam will come some part of the wisdom which shall guide the people.

In the end, out of this vast shiver of the mad gods, a great party shall determine its part in the destiny of America. This is a funny world.

TALMADGE ASKS AID OF SMITH FOR FIGHT

Seeks Intraparty Attack on Deal for Group of "Formers."

Governor Talmadge called upon Alfred E. Smith and other "take-a-walk democrats" yesterday to join him in his intraparty fight against President Roosevelt and the New Deal.

The shock-haired executive, one of the first and most persistent critics of Mr. Roosevelt and his policies, loudly proclaimed his party regularly and dismissed any possibility of a bolt with:

"I want it understood that I am in a democratic party and there to stay. I think it would be a mistake to nominate Roosevelt, but I am a party man and there to stay."

Smith, former Governor of Massachusetts, former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, former Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby and former New York Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohan issued a joint statement on the eve of the democratic convention asking the party to repudiate President Roosevelt.

"The best thing Al Smith, Governor Ely and the others can do is to line up with me on my plan to fight Roosevelt and the New Deal within the party," Talmadge said.

"They should fight the New Deal from within the party instead of threatening to 'take a walk' if things don't go to suit them in Philadelphia."

The Governor reviewed his own stand against the New Deal, which included a fight against the Bankhead cotton control act in the United States supreme court. He filed suit in the name of the state. Before the decision was handed down, the AAA was invalidated and the cotton act repealed.

"I think I've been of great assistance to the American people in bringing that case to the supreme court in order to defeat New Deal policies," he said.

The Governor kept informed of party maneuvers at Philadelphia through his executive secretary, Carlton Mobley. He sent him to the convention Sunday.

"I can get there in three hours if I can serve my party and country," Talmadge said of the convention. He is the present national committeeman from Georgia.

TAMANY 100 PER CENT FOR F.D.R., LEADER SAYS

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—There were 28 alternates but only 27 delegates when the Tammany Hall special pulled out of Pennsylvania station for Philadelphia today.

The extra alternate was Bert Stand, secretary of the wigwag, who will vote in place of Delegate Alfred E. Smith if the latter is absent when the roll is called at the democratic national convention.

"Tammany Hall is for Roosevelt unanimously," Stand said.

None of the 400 Tammanyites aboard the special offered any comment on the stop-Roosevelt letter published this morning by Smith and four other New Deal dissenters.

Tammany Leader James J. Dooling said he had read the letter and therefore has no comment to make.

Smith remained silent on whether he would attend the convention.

COUGHLIN SEES SMITH AS HAVING NO EFFECT

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 22.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin stopped off in Syracuse today when his automobile broke down at Cazenovia, and declared his belief that Al Smith would not change the political picture this year.

"Mr. Smith's position will not make much difference in the presidential contest," said the Detroit priest before the signing of papers at an automobile agency for the purchase of a new $3,200 automobile.

Al Means Lots of Money, Few Votes, Landon's Advisor, Peeved, Declares

Smith Statement Will Hurt Republicans More Than Democrats; Throws Liberty League on Side of Kansan.

By HERBERT AGAR, Author of "The People's Choice" (Pulitzer Prize Book) and Associate Editor Louisville Courier-Journal.

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—It is clear that Mr. Smith's telegram to the convention will not do the democrats much harm; but the question is being raised in Philadelphia whether the telegram may not do the republicans a good bit of harm.

One of the notable points about the republican convention was the care with which the Liberty League was kept out of sight. There was no open admission, at any point, that such an organization existed. Representative Wadsworth, who was felt by many to be the logical candidate for the presidential nomination, was ruled out on the grounds that he was a Liberty Leaguer. It was thought—wisely thought—that the less said about this band of super-patriots the better.

Embarrasses Republicans.

The republican party was trying to appear before the nation as a reformed organization, full of fresh blood from the west. It would not do to mingle this fresh blood with stale thoughts from Delaware. But Mr. Smith has done it. He has foisted these intelligent plans. It is no wonder that Charles P. Taft, Governor Landon's advisor, made the ad comment: "Al Smith means a lot of money, but darn few votes."

Mr. Smith's telegram is doubly embarrassing. First, it repeats some of the flimsiest ideas of the republican platform, some of the ideas the republicans would be happiest to forget, and second, it winds up by saying that if the democratic convention does not adopt these ideas, "patriotic voters of all parties will know unhesitatingly to what standard they must rally in order to preserve the American way of life."

But if it is really true that the "patriotic voters" whom Mr. Smith now represents must rally to Governor Landon, then it may be that Governor Landon is not such a forward-looking man as many had hoped. The conclusion does not necessarily follow. The argument is by no means fair. But it is the sort of argument which makes headway in a political campaign. Hence the sour remark from Mr. Taft.

Tariff Remark Blunder.

Mr. Smith's worst service to his republican friends is his repetition, taken from the Cleveland tariff platform, of the incredible arguments on tariff and debts. Those arguments are the sort of folly into which hurried men, while drafting a platform, may be expected to fall. They are the sort of folly which anyone likes to be reminded about the next week—least of all by his friends. And in Mr. Smith's brief telegram, the contradiction between the tariff demands and the war-debt demands are even more painfully clear than they were in the republican platform, where a decent distance separated the one plank from the other.

Early in his telegram Mr. Smith demands "laws that will keep the American market for the American goods and services and not have them swamped by the goods and products of nations that are our industrial and farming rivals and competitors. In chasing the shadow of foreign markets we must not throw away the substance of the greatest market in the world—the domestic market of the United States of America."

Debtors Able to Pay.

Here is a demand for a good old republican tariff—something which millions of Americans still believe in. But no one has a right to believe in. But no one has a right to believe in reserving the American market for American goods, and at the same time to believe in collecting $12,000,000,000 in war debts from abroad.

Though neither Mr. Smith nor the platform makers at Cleveland seem to have noticed it, Americans have done a lot of thinking during the last seven years. One result of this thinking is the widespread realization that there is no way to collect huge sums of money from abroad except by taking payment in goods. If, therefore, we are to keep any foreign market at all for our farm products, we cannot have both a high protective tariff and a policy of collecting war debts. It is a very lucky and very heartening fact that the American people have come to realize this. But it is not so lucky for Mr. Smith.

Al Is Slipping.

The Smith telegram was perfectly timed so far as getting talked about is concerned. There is no news today in Philadelphia. Everyone knows, or thinks he knows, what is going to happen at this convention. There is nothing to gossip about, nothing to plot about in smoke-filled rooms. So Mr. Smith's gesture made big headlines and was the subject of most of the day's talk.

But the talk was anything but complimentary to Mr. Smith. Everyone is asking what has become of the old "Al," of the man whose political touch seemed so sure, of the man who had made a speech on the New York state budget sound interesting and work out logically. The Liberty League dinner suggested that "Al" was slipping. Today's telegram proves it.

Mr. Smith has had plenty of time to think up the best possible arguments against the New Deal; but he actually produces a mishmash of several of the worst possible angles. He has had plenty of time to think up some constructive aid to bring the republican party out of its slump, but he actually produces a plea for a return to the old tariff and debt policies. He has had plenty of time to think up an alliance which is a liability. It is a sorry day for the Happy Warrior who offers his help and is told that he "means a lot of money, but darn few votes."

DEMOCRATS TO OPEN NATIONAL MEET TODAY

New York to a question whether he could speak in behalf of Al Landon, the republican nominee.

Union Party Ignored.

As for the thunder on the left, Farley reiterated that neither the platform nor election plans would be changed to woo supporters from the Lemke-Coughlin union party.

Officially, the only business here today was the setting of the democratic national committee. In settling the main one of three delegates contests, involving Minnesota, the committee ruled that both factions be seated, splitting the state 22 votes between them. One side disputed this decision, however, and the prospect of a local fight on that issue appeared.

The committee formally ratified the selection of Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, to deliver the keynote speech tomorrow night, and of Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, to take over, with a speech, the permanent chairman's gavel Wednesday night.

Farley tested the loudspeaker system in the huge but simply decorated convention hall while the organizer played "I'm Putting All My Eggs in One Basket." Farley's gavel actually will fall at noon. (Atlanta time) tomorrow. He will make a speech and the convention will be on.

Platform Fight Grows.

Tonight's informal platform argument increased. Senator Wagner, of New York, the prospective resolutions chairman, has a Roosevelt-approved draft. Whether it includes suggestions for a crop insurance, a currency backed by gold and silver, farm-tenant relief and other proposals remained undiscussed.

The prospective fight over the Roosevelt proposal to have the nominees selected by a simple majority vote rather than by a two-thirds vote was not on the agenda.

Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina, the United States ambassador to Mexico, was one southerner who lashed at the two-thirds rule and urged its abrogation. Senator Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri, who is to be chairman of the rules committee and who saw the nomination of Champ Clark, his father, blocked by the rule in 1912, organized the fight for the majority vote. Plainly, the Roosevelt forces were in control.

Farley Checks Up.

Farley did a brief bit of checking up during the day and emerged with a declaration that although there was some opposition to abrogation in the south, it was "chiefly vocal."

In fact, said the breezy postmaster general, the two-thirds rule could be jossed aside by a unanimous vote "if we went to work on the proposition."

The two-thirds rule originated in the south, because, in the words of Ambassador Daniels, delegates from that section, outnumbered by those from the north and west, were afraid that the candidate chosen might not agree with them on the question of slavery. The rule gave the southern something of a veto power.

Support for the rule was expressed anew from within the North and South Carolina, Virginia and Texas delegations. The rule was also, of increasing the size of southern delegations and those of some of the smaller states in exchange for support in adopting a majority vote rule.

But Farley said he had heard nothing about it.

Arizona, the first of the small states to caucus, was solid in pledging its six votes for a majority rule. Early arrivals among the Oklahoma split 6 to 5 in favor of the same thing.

Platform Issues.

The platform discussion prior to Senator Wagner's arrival centered not only on the scores of planks brought forward by individual, but also upon whether at least part of the Roosevelt draft might be couched in general rather than specific and detailed language.

That is, a general objective might be stated in broad words, with the details of how the goal would be reached left for President Roosevelt to expound later.

There was local lobby as well as upstairs conferences also on the writing of a monopoly plank, with some influential democrats urging that the convention go on record as favoring a more strictly worded call for the smashing of monopolies than the republicans adopted at Cleveland.

Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, kept alive discussion of his proposed money plank, which called both for a further devaluation of the dollar and for a currency backed by both gold and silver. The Roosevelt currency plank remained guarded throughout the day, but was a matter of much speculation.

Delegates' Dinner.

The conventions 1,106 delegates, and the more than 400 alternates, had arrived here in almost full force tonight, and this usually staid group of city-bred men and women, the first of a long series of official entertainments.

Mayor S. Davis Wilson, who will make a welcoming address to the convention tomorrow, held a dinner for visiting governors. There now are 38 democratic governors, and many more have letters of introduction.

The dinner was followed by a reception at Independence Hall. The soft mallet used for such occasions was actually produced in the historic Liberty Bell in honor of the visitors.

A prize fight, with one of the contestants a negro, and a midnight dinner for the 700 newspapermen, were here were other parts of the night's festivities. The round will be taken up again in the morning, when the delegates breakfast for the women delegates.

Farley "Not Worried."

At his press conference, Farley concluded his answering of questions about the Smith group and the union party with a statement:

"I'm not worried about a thing—sincerely, I am not worried about anything."

As he has at almost every press conference held during the last week, he repeated today his assertion that he was not conceding a single state to the opposition in the November election.

Even Farley smiled, however, when a feminine correspondent in the back of the crowded room, piped out:

"How about Maine?"

When someone remarked that there seemed to be some difference in predictions and those of John D. M. Hamilton, new chairman of the republican national committee, who says that Landon will carry 42 states, Farley replied:

"The discrepancy is on Hamilton's part—but he's all right. He's a good fellow. And Kansas is a splendid state. (The governor of that state as governor of a 'typical prairie state' stirred a storm recently.) I am sure Kansas will exercise the same excellent judgment it did in 1922, when it gave Mr. Roosevelt a majority."

Position of Lehman.

The postmaster general and national party chairman, who also is chairman of the New York state democratic committee, stepped into his latter capacity in discussing the position of Governor Lehman, of New York.

Lehman has said he would not run again and the New Deal high command has been after him to change his mind. Farley, after saying that he had chosen the New York Governor to make one of the second speeches for Roosevelt's renomination, added that he had conferred with Lehman on this and would confer with him again. Presumably this second conference was set for the purpose of arguing with the banker-Governor to seek re-election.

Farley generally conceded that the chances of Roosevelt for carrying the Empire State would be enhanced if Lehman headed the state ticket.

The Governor said today that there had been much pressure on him to enter the race, both from political and non-political interests, but added he thought the President would head the ticket. New York whoever headed the state ticket.

Speculation continued here today as to whether Smith would campaign against the President. His call for those who believe as he does to go to some other "standard" if the President is renominated left the door open.

Ely to Aid Landon.

Former Governor Joseph B. Ely, of Massachusetts, who signed the "take a walk" statement with Smith, said in the Bay State today that he would take the stump for Landon if asked.

In contrast to Landon's statement that everyone must decide for himself the line of "demarcation" between fealty to party and principle, and the declaration of his running mate, Colonel Frank Knox, that the Smith statement would damage Roosevelt's chances, Norman Thomas, the socialist presidential candidate, predicted the Smith group would give the New Deal two votes for every one taken away.

Farley told newsmen asking about the Smith statement that there "are plenty of substantial democrats in the country who will take care of it."

Asked just what he meant, Farley changed his words to "answered it."

What Is Expected.

From administration sources came word there was tentative agreement on these policies calling for preservation of soil fertility; continuation of reciprocal trade agreements; encouragement of farm co-operative organizations; enlargement of the domestic market through wage increases; endorsement of commodity loans, and provision of credit to enable tenant farmers to buy their own land.

From state delegations came other suggestions. A Wisconsin group sought a strong plank on the St. Lawrence waterway. Iowans had ready a farm tenancy plank advanced by six congressmen. Pennsylvania's Senator Joseph F. Guffey said he had flood control suggestions to make. Publishers O. S. Warden, of Montana, said he wanted a pledge to continue the western reclamation program. Senator Pope, of Idaho, carried a draft of a crop insurance plank.

Oklahoma's Senator Thomas said he was prepared to open up the platform debate on money and would seek further devaluation of the dollar and its stabilization at the 1926 level. He said, too, he wanted silver recognized with gold as a monetary base.

Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, a New Deal critic and gold standard supporter, was certain to object to the Thomas program if he accepted Virginia's seat on the resolutions committee.

All the western silver state delegates were behind Thomas, who said those who spoke for the administration indicated managed currency would be supported in the Wagner draft.

On monopolies, the talk among the delegates indicated a desire to go a step beyond the republican plank written at Cleveland and some brought up the name of Idaho's republican senator, William E. Borah, with the suggestion that inclusion of Borah language deleted from the Cleveland plank might win him some support from liberal republicans.

Similar suggestions that the administration's tentative platform be edited to appeal to liberal, particularly to those who might be diverted by the Lemke-Coughlin-Townsend party movement, were met by Farley with the statement he saw no reason for rearranging platform planks.

Many were waiting for an opportunity to be heard by the resolutions committee on their platform plans. Among them were the Californian, Fletcher W. Greer, of Brawley, who had an old-age pension plank which he might bring up in the morning, if he could get no reception from the committee. Roy Misenor, of the Washington delegation, was ready to make a similar offering based on the Townsend plan, but proposed to present it first to his own delegation.

Misenor also had a "production for use" plank in his pocket, which he said the government's taking over idle industries for the benefit of the unemployed, who could provide clothing, fuel and necessities for themselves thereby.

Ignore Smith Bloc.

The delegates seemed unlikely to heed the Smith-Coly-Reed-Bly-Cohan recommendations that the party pledge itself to "take the heavy hand of government off business," stop spending, stop chasing "the shadow of foreign markets" and to stand against the use of public funds to influence elections.

Several foreign relations planks were ready to be drawn out of pocket, among them the suggestions of Idaho's Senator Pope concerning the sanctity of treaty obligations, taking profits out of war, pledging international co-operation for peace and disarmament and adjudication of international difficulties by court methods.

Benjamin Horton said he wanted a democratic pledge to ultimate statehood for Puerto Rico. High Commissioner Frank Murphy, of the Philippines, had a tentative pronouncement saying the United States had a binding duty as trustee for the islands and there must be no action to profit the United States at Filipino expense.

And Commissioner George E. Allen, of Washington, D. C., was ready to go to the District of Columbia.

PEACE PLANK SOUGHT BY DEMOCRATIC WOMEN

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—(AP)—A strongly worded peace plank was the first product today of the women's committee for suggestions on the democratic platform.

Stronger neutrality legislation, taking the profits out of war, and a defense policy based upon a defense of our soil from invasion and not of our interests abroad, were specified.

Representative Caroline O'Day, chairman of the committee of 14 women, said peace was put first because most democratic women wrote demanding that it be made paramount.

She hinted at planks which perhaps may follow by naming other subjects most stressed in letters from all sections of the country—strengthening the Social Security Act, for the child labor amendment, for greater recognition of women in the par; and in public service, and for repeal of a clause of the economy act barring a woman from government employment if her husband is a government worker.

"We will concentrate on as few planks as possible," said Mrs. O'Day. "Three, four or five perhaps. Much that we're for the men also are for the women in the par."

"Personally, I think it's terrible to have a defense appropriation of a billion and a half next year while the Department of State, our first line of defense, has only thirteen million."

head and face. Hospital attaches reported the had lost considerable blood and was in a serious condition.

The women were brought to Grady hospital in a private ambulance from McDonough and were accompanied by Hall, who was prostrated with grief.

Henry county authorities are investigating the accident and were expected at Grady hospital during the night.

McDonald Man Hurt.

Struck by an automobile while he was leading a horse on Ashby street, near Jefferson street, shortly after midnight this morning, Edgar S. Duffee, 36, of McDonough, Ga., was critically injured.

Police reported that the automobile, occupied by two unidentified white men, first struck the horse and then hit Duffee. After the crash the machine plunged into the front yard of the residence of Fred Bates, at 776 Ashby street, and wrecked.

The two occupants left the scene. Bates was taken to Grady hospital where he was found to be suffering a fractured right leg, a probable fracture of the skull and lacerations. His condition was pronounced critical.

The horse was taken by officers to a veterinary hospital.

B. L. Shafer Hurt.

B. L. Shafer, of 1157 Oak street, S. W., was seriously injured yesterday morning when his car collided at Ashby street and Ogletree avenue with another machine driven, according to police, by Cecil Owen, of 1010 Lawton street.

Shafer was knocked unconscious by the force of the impact. He was taken to Grady hospital, where his condition was reported last night as serious. Police filed charges of reckless driving against both Shafer and Owen.

John Small, 67, of 23 Woodward avenue, was reported last night as still in a serious condition at Grady hospital as the result of an accident Sunday in which he was knocked down by an automobile on Hunter street, between Piedmont avenue and Capitol square.

Police reported the car was driven by J. S. Sharple, of the Kimball House. Small was said by police to have stepped from between the car into the path of Sharple's machine.

We, in the optical business see the results of neglected eyes but are unable to comprehend the reason for it. Why anyone would consciously put off a duty so obviously to their own interest, baffles the imagination.

Perhaps some don't realize that it takes but a short time for an eye examination. Nor, how comforting to be told that the eyesight is normal . . . or, that they came just in time to have defects corrected which might result seriously.

FLORIDA VOTES TODAY IN RUN-OFF PRIMARY

Governor, 8 Congressmen
Among Candidates To Be Chosen.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 22.—(AP)—Florida delegates will nominate candidates for governor, two congressmen and state school superintendent tomorrow in a runoff primary which becomes necessary when no one was in each of these races polled a majority vote in the June 2 regular primary.

Releigh Polk, Tampa criminal court judge, and Fred P. Cone, Lake City banker, farmer and lawyer, seek the democratic nomination for governor. They finished first and second, respectively, in the unprecedented field of 14 primary candidates. There have been few clear-cut issues in the campaign.

Representatives R. A. Green, of St. Johns, and W. J. Sears, of Jacksonville, seek the congressional nomination in the second district. Joe Hendricks, of Deland, and W. J. Stead, of Kissimmee, two young lawyers, are after the congressional nomination in the new fifth district, the citrus belt.

State School Superintendent W. S. Cawthron, of Tallahassee, and Colin English, of Ocala, are contesting for the office now held by the former.

Facsimile of check for $1,000 which the North American Accident Insurance Company paid to Mabel Turner, widow and beneficiary of George Pierce Turner, Jr., who was killed in an automobile accident on May 16 on the Dixie highway about five miles north of Cartersville. The insurance policy covering this accident was taken out through The Constitution.

Widow of Motor Accident Victim Paid $1,000 on Constitution Policy

On May 16 George P. Turner Jr., of 208 Princeton Avenue, College Park, was killed in an automobile accident on the Dixie highway about five miles north of Cartersville.

Mr. Turner secured a travel and pedestrian accident insurance policy issued by the North American Accident Insurance Company through The Constitution. Proof of the claim of the accident was filed the first part of June. Check for $1,000 was issued by the insurance company on June 10th, in payment of claim, to Mrs. Mabel Turner, Mr. Turner's widow.

The first thought is that it pays to be a subscriber of The Constitution in connection with the accident insurance feature which it offers to its subscribers. Had Mr. Turner not been thoughtful enough to take out this insurance in connection with his subscription to The Constitution, this $1,000 would not have been available.

Important Protection. No one knows when tragedy will strike. Many, even now, are standing on the brink of the grave without knowing that early death or injury is their lot. When Mr. Turner started out on the fatal trip, little did he think what the end would be and how soon. The accident was unfortunate, but Mr. Turner was thoughtful enough to protect himself. Every person should take advantage without fail of The Constitution's unparalleled reader service feature. Its expense is insignificant. Under its terms the policy holder is protected.

POLICE DRAG RIVER IN SEARCH FOR MAN

Relatives of W. C. Poss Reveal Note Indicating Suicidal Intent.

Lieutenant W. A. Wells, of the Fulton county police, and Officers Woodrow Wilson and Burton Carroll dragged the Chattahoochee river all day yesterday in a search for the body of W. C. Poss, 22, of a Neal street address.

The search was instituted after relatives of Poss reported to police that he had left a note addressed to his wife which read: "When you read this I will be dead. I am going to the river and end it all."

The officers reported that they found clothing identified as belonging to Poss on the river bank, three-quarters of a mile below the Bolton bridge. Tracks also were found leading down to the river's edge.

Relatives told the officers that Poss had been in ill health for some time and also had been despondent over his failure to obtain work.

The search will be continued at the river today, officers declared.

KING EDWARD VIII.

EDWARD BECOMES 42 YEARS OLD TODAY

King Will Ride in Brilliant
Parade Through Flag-
Lined Streets.

LONDON, June 22.—(AP)—King Edward VIII, 42 years old tomorrow, will observe the day publicly by leading his guards in the colorful ceremony of trooping the colors, traditional salute to his majesty's birthday.

The king will ride through the streets at the head of the troops wearing a scarlet and gold full-dress uniform and the blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter across his breast.

For the king the parade is but one item in a busy day, but for the public, and for American visitors particularly, it will be one of the brilliant events of the season.

While flags flutter from every rooftop tomorrow and military bands play along the tree-lined Mall, the king will ride his charger to Buckingham palace, escorted from the parade ground by a brilliant array of foreign attaches and officials of the court. At the palace he will take the final salute as the parade files past.

In the evening there will be a private dinner party attended by members of the royal family, but the king will not take part in any further public ceremonies because of court mourning.

MGUFFEY READER IS 100 YEARS OLD

Celebration To Mark Anniversary of Its Publication.

OXFORD, Ohio, June 22.—(UP)—Representatives of societies dedicated to the immortalization of the famous McGuffey Readers, which years ago were the main textbooks of the nation's schools, will gather at Miami University here this summer to celebrate the 100th anniversary of publication of the first "Reader."

The celebration will be held July 24 and 25 in Withrow court of Miami, where McGuffey, as a teacher there from 1828 to 1836, wrote the readers. Dr. Harvey C. Minnich, curator of Miami's McGuffey Museum, announced.

McGuffey societies, scattered from coast to coast, will send delegates. The societies have pledged themselves to raise $10,000 needed to complete the Lorado Taft McGuffey Memorial, to be erected in honor of the educator on the Miami campus.

The university now boasts one of the largest and most complete collections of McGuffey's Readers, being second only to that of the Detroit public library. "Henry Ford has the third largest. The Miami collection includes the only copy of the McGuffey Primer."

WARNER B. DELOACH FUNERAL RITES TODAY

NANKING TROOPS MOVE TOWARD CANTON AREA

Clash of Two Armies of Chinese May Be Result of March.

CANTON, June 22.—(UP)—Nanking government troops, under orders to suppress anti-Japanese forces in the autonomous provinces of Kwangtung and Kwangsi, advanced to the Kwangsi border today, the southwest political council, headquarters announced.

Movement of the Nanking army, estimated to number 300,000 men, threatened to plunge the republic into the bloodiest upheaval since its birth in 1911 when the empire was overthrown.

Leaders of the Canton anti-Japanese forces, recently withdrawn from Nanking territory to avert civil war after they had seized a northward march to declare war on Japanese garrisons in North China, said they would throw the full weight of their well-equipped army against the Nanking troops if their territory is invaded.

These developments coincided with reports that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, dictator of the Nanking central government, has ordered his armies to crush internal challenges to his rule.

Additional Nanking divisions reportedly are moving into Fukien province for war against Kwangtung, and others have been sent to Kwangchow provinces to outflank the Kwangsi army.

General Chiang reportedly has had to cope with mutiny in the ranks of the Hunan province forces. Unrest developed among the Hunan army when one regiment revolted and paraded through its garrison area shouting anti-civil war slogans.

The southwest political council met today and adopted a three-point program on which it will base discussions with the Nanking government, scheduled for July 10. The points were:

1. A demand that Nanking immediately sever diplomatic relations with Japan and lead the nation in armed resistance against the invader.
2. Abrogation of all secret treaties with Japan, including the Shanghai and Tientsin treaties (which ended Sino-Japanese hostilities in 1922 and 1923) and the agreement between General Ho Ying-ching, Chinese minister of war, and General Umezu.
3. A demand that all movements for the nation's salvation be emancipated and that the rights of freedom of speech and publication be restored.

NANKING, June 22.—(UP)—A central government spokesman tonight denied reports that Nanking troops are advancing toward the border of Kwangsi province.

MEMORIAL PROPOSED TO AIRPLANE INVENTOR

NEWCASTLE, Ind., June 22.—(UP)—A nation-wide campaign for $250,000 to construct a memorial at the birthplace of Wilbur Wright, co-inventor of the airplane, is planned by the local chapter of the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity.

A part of the fund would be used to erect an aviation beacon at Wright's birthplace.

FARM WAGE GAINS DURING SPRING NOTED

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—An increase in farm wages and employment was reported today by the bureau of agricultural economics.

"A definite increase in farm employment in the rate of wages paid this spring compared with a year ago is expected to continue through the summer," the bureau said.

During the spring farm wages paid per month with board averaged $30.89 the country over, compared with $19.11 in April a year ago. There is usually an advance with the coming of the summer season.

FIRST LADY HONORS DR. ALICE HAMILTON

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., June 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt presented the Chi Omega sorority national achievement award today to Dr. Alice Hamilton, research expert.

The presentation banquet concluded the first day of the sorority's annual convention.

Dr. Hamilton has gained wide recognition in industrial poisoning research. Mrs. Roosevelt planned to go tomorrow to Arthursville to attend the opening of a factory at a homestead project.

REV. MARSHALL DENDY WELCOMED TO ACWORTH

ACWORTH, Ga., June 22.—Rev. Marshall Dendy, new pastor of the local Presbyterian church, was welcomed to his pastorate last night at a public service, presided over by Rev. J. C. Collins, pastor of the Baptist church, who proposed the service.

Major Carl C. Butler and representatives from the four local churches, Baptist, Christian, Methodist and Presbyterian, made talks of welcome. Rev. Dendy responded.

There was a special music. A choir composed of members from the different churches led the congregational singing.

WHAT I THINK ABOUT

Life Insurance

ALVIN B. CATES
President, Adams-Cates Co.

This is the sixth of a series of messages from Atlanta citizens prominent in business and civic affairs who will cite their views and opinions on life insurance. This series will be followed with interest by many who appreciate the sound viewpoints of successful men. Watch for those to follow.

In my opinion every man should have ample insurance to cover his obligations, both as to his business and his family.

My suggestion is that a person should start early laying aside a part of his income for life insurance, and in this way provide for the later years of life when it is a source of great satisfaction to have funds available upon which he can call to meet his needs.

I became interested in life insurance at an early age and when 18 took out my first policy, which was written on the accelerative endowment plan. This policy has been fully paid up for years and has been a real joy to me.

O. HENRY ENCORE

The Lost Works of W. Sidney Porter (O. Henry).

PADEREWSKI'S HAIR

The "Post Man"

The frequent allusions to the "Post Man" which will be noted in some of the selections included in "O. Henry Encore" are to be explained by the fact that they were written while O. Henry was on the staff of the Houston Post. This connection suggested the "Post Man" as a pseudonym appropriate to his role of anonymous observer on the streets of Houston.

The post man had the pleasure of meeting Colonel Warburton Pollock yesterday in the rotunda of the New Hutchins.

Colonel Pollock is one of the most widely known men in this country, and has probably a more extended acquaintance with distinguished men of the times than any other living man. He is a wit, a raconteur of rare gifts, a born diplomat, and a man of world-wide travel and experience. Nothing pleases him so well as to relate his extremely interesting reminiscences of men and events to some congenial circle of listeners. His recollections of his associations with famous men and women would fill volumes.

Colonel Pollock has a suite of rooms permanently engaged in a Washington City hotel, where he passes, however, only a small portion of his time. He always spends his summers in Europe, principally in Naples and Florence, but he rarely stays in one place more than a few weeks or months.

Colonel Pollock is now on his way to South America to look after his interests in some valuable mahogany forest there.

The colonel chatted freely and most interestingly about his experiences, and told to an admiring and attentive group of listeners some excellent stories about well-known people.

"Did I ever tell you?" he asked, as he puffed at his long black Prince. "About an adventure I had in Africa a few years ago? No? Well, I see Paderewski is coming to Houston soon, and the story may not be inappropos. You have all heard Paderewski's wonderful hair spoken of, of course. Well, very few people know how he came by it. This is how it was. A few years ago, some of us made a party to go lion hunting in Africa. There was Nat Goodwin, Paderewski, John L. Sullivan, Joe Pulitzer, and myself. That was before any of us had acquired fame, days we were all ambitious, and everyone of us needed the rest and recreation we were taking. We were a congenial jolly crowd, and had a rattling good time on the trip. When we landed we hired guides, and stocked up with provisions and ammunition for a month's trip into the Zambesi country. We were all anxious to kill a lion, and we penetrated quite a distance and unexplored region.

"We had great times at night over our camp fire, chatting and chaffing one another, and thoroughly enjoying ourselves.

"Paderewski was the only member of our party who had been making money. It was just about the time there was such a furor about his playing, and he had piled up quite a nest egg from his piano recitals.

"One day Goodwin, Sullivan, Paderewski and I were loafing around camp just before dinner. We had been out hunting all the morning without success. Pulitzer had not yet shown up. Goodwin and Sullivan got into a dispute about the proper way to dodge and counter a rattling snake. Nat Goodwin is quite an athlete himself, and handles his hands like a professional. Paderewski was always a quiet sort of fellow, but amiable and well liked by everyone. He was sitting on the stump of a baobab tree gazing into the distance with a dreamy look in his magnetic eyes. I was loading some cartridges, and not paying much attention until I heard Sullivan and Goodwin raise their voices in quite an angry dispute.

"If I had a pair of gloves, I'd soon prove I am right," said Nat. "I wish you had," said John. "In a minute you wouldn't know anything."

"You couldn't stand up two minutes before a man who knew the first principles of boxing," said Goodwin. "Your weight and your rush are the only points in your favor."

If we just had some gloves!" said John, grinding his teeth.

"They both turned and looked at Paderewski as if by common consent.

"Paderewski at that time had coal black hair, as smooth and straight as an Indian's, that hung down his back in a thick mass. He had a little on his head at the same time. I don't know which of them did it, but there was the flash of a knife, and in two seconds Paderewski's hair was as neatly as a Comanche Indian could have done it.

"They divided the mass of hair in two parts, each stuffed his portion into two leather cartridge pouches, wound the straps around his wrists, and they went at each other in regular prize ring style with their extemporized boxing gloves.

"Paderewski gave a yell of pain and dismay, and clasped his hands to his bald head in horror.

"I am ruined," he said. "My professional career is at an end. What shall I do?"

"I tried to separate John and Nat, but I got a backache from one of those Paderewski boxing gloves that stretched me into a big cactus.

"Just then Joe Pulitzer came into camp, dragging a big lion by the tail he had just shot in a canebreak on the river.

"Paderewski's hair," he asked, gazing through his spectacles at the two boxing who were hitting at each other and dodging around and at Paderewski, who was wailing and moaning at the loss of his scalp.

"I wouldn't have taken $5,000 for that hair," he growled.

"Vat vill you gif," said Pulitzer. "for another head of hair yooost as good."

"He went up close to Paderewski and they whispered together for a few minutes. Then Joe got out a tape line and measured Paderewski's head. Then he took a knife and cut out a piece the exact size from the back of the lion's head and fitted it snugly over Paderewski's scalp.

"I wouldn't have taken $5,000 for that hair," he growled.

"It seems almost incredible, but in three days the hair had grown fast, the pain was gone, and Paderewski had the loveliest head of thick, tawny, flowing hair you ever laid your eyes on."

"I saw Paderewski give Pulitzer a check that evening behind the tent, and you can bet it was a stiff one. I don't know the exact figure, but Joe brought out the World as soon as we got back to New York and has since done well."

"It simply made Paderewski's fortune. He was a millionaire yet. I never hear him bang down hard on the bass keys of a piano, but I think of him roaring in South African forest, and I'll bet he does, too."

"I like stage people," continued Colonel Pollock. "They are, as a rule, the jolliest companions in the world and the most entertaining. Hardly a year passes that I do not make up a congenial party for a pleasure trip of some kind, and I always have two or three actors in the crowd. Now, a year or two ago, some of us got together and took a three-month voyage to see the sights. There were DeWolf Hopper, Dr. Parkhurst, Bufalo Bill, Eugene Field, Steve Brodie, Senator Sherman, General Coney, and Hermann, the great magician, among the party."

"We were guests of the Prince of Wales, and went in his steam yacht, the Albion. None of us had been to Australia, and the prince wanted to show us around that country. We had a lovely trip. We were all congenial souls, and our time on shipboard was long and happy and frolic during the whole journey.

"We landed at Melbourne and were met by the governor of Victoria and only a few dignitaries of the place, as the prince had sent word that he wished to pass his visit there strictly incognito. In a day or two our entertainers took us on a little tour through New South Wales to show us the country, and give us some idea of the great mining and sheep raising industries of the country. We went through Wagga Wagga, Jamba Junction, and Narrandera, and from there

Captain Vancouver and a few comrades went ashore to make a visit to Tahiti's ruler. The chief was away on a visit to another island, but the English were received by the chief's son, a boy of ten years, who took the part of acting ruler very well. To the captain he gave a present of a plantain leaf and a pig. Later the natives gave dozens of pigs to the whites.

Vancouver spoke of the natives as being "Indians," but they were of a different stock than North American Indians. Their skins were of a rather light brown color, and their nature seemed lighthearted and free. They did everything they could to make their visitors feel at home, giving them fowl and vegetables to eat, as well as

Offered in The Constitution's New "Great Names" Game

START TODAY IN THIS DELIGHTFUL NEW GAME

Start on this quick, happy road to FORTUNE! On this page you will find the first 10 cartoons of "Great Names" Game. The first weekly series of cartoons, Nos. 1 through 7, may be submitted on the Answer Form at the lower right-hand corner of this page. Save cartoons 8, 9 and 10 and submit them with your second weekly series of cartoons.

THE IMPORTANT THING IS TO SUBMIT YOUR ANSWERS TO THE FIRST WEEKLY SERIES NOW, SO THAT YOUR NAME MAY BE REGISTERED TO SHARE IN THE $6,000.00 IN CASH PRIZES. As you proceed from cartoon to cartoon studying the puzzles, detecting clues and finally arriving at the right name, be sure you carefully go over every name in the list printed below each cartoon before making your decision.

Continue to name the new cartoons, as they appear each day in The Atlanta Constitution, and assure yourself of your share of $6,000.00 IN CASH PRIZES.

Name All the Cartoons on This Page . . . if you have not already submitted your answers to the first weekly series, send them in now on the convenient answer form in the lower right corner! NAME CARTOON NO. 11 TOMORROW!

THE RULES

1. The "GREAT NAMES" contest is open to every reader of The Atlanta Constitution living in the United States, with the exception of employees of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION and members of their families and with the further exception of any person who has won $1,000 or more in any previous newspaper contest.

NOTE: You do not need to be a regular subscriber, you may purchase The Atlanta Constitution each day at your news stand.

2. Beginning Sunday, June 14, 1936, and continuing each day for 12 weeks, The Atlanta Constitution will publish a cartoon. Each cartoon will in some way suggest or represent a name. The name may be that of a person, city, state, nation, book, song or motion picture.

3. The Atlanta Constitution will award a First Prize of $4,000.00 as part of $6,000.00 in prizes to the person or persons submitting the best or most appropriate name to each of the 84 cartoons and in all other ways conforming to these Official Rules. The person or persons submitting the best or most appropriate name to all 84 cartoons and otherwise complying with these Official Rules shall be eligible for First Prize. The person or persons submitting the next nearest correct solution to the 84 cartoons and otherwise complying with all these Official Rules shall be eligible for additional prizes in order of the correctness of their answers.

4. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers. Just name the cartoons in accordance with the rules.

5. In case of tie, as many prizes will be reserved as there are persons tied before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution; that is, if two or more persons tie in submitting the correct or nearest correct names to the 84 cartoons, the first two or more prizes will be reserved for them and will be awarded in the order of the correctness of such contestants (without cost) to a second and, if necessary, a third or fourth series of cartoons. In the event of final tie, a prize identical with that tied for will be awarded to each tying contestant.

6. To expedite filing, answers or solutions in this contest should be submitted as follows: At the end of each week, during which a series of seven cartoons will have been printed in The Atlanta Constitution, the contestant is requested to mail or bring the answers to the seven cartoons to the Great Names Editor, care of The Atlanta Constitution, in a unit. Solutions to this contest are to be submitted in a series, seven at a time. The answers to the cartoons printed during any week may be submitted during the following week.

7. In order to qualify for a prize, the contestant is required to accompany each of the 12 series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin in payment for a special print of the week's featured cartoon, purchase of which is a condition for entering the contest. The Special Prints, suitable for framing, will be mailed to the contestant in one set, at the close of the contest.

8. Any person entering the contest and by the submission of answers, agrees to accept as final the decision of The Atlanta Constitution and the contest editor, on all matters affecting the conduct of the contest, the making of the awards, and procedure and policy, with regard to the acceptance of submissions during the contest.

9. Answer Forms to which no names are signed will not be considered nor will any claims to the ownership to such answers be recognized. The Atlanta Constitution will not be responsible for answers or communications unduly delayed or lost in transit either from the contestant to The Atlanta Constitution or from The Atlanta Constitution to the contestant.

10. A contestant is permitted to submit as many sets of 84 solutions as he or she chooses, provided same are properly qualified, and each will be judged as a unit, but no person will be awarded more than one prize. When submitting additional sets of answers, all series must be identified as sets A, B, C, etc.

Grant Stages Amazing Rally To Upset No. 2 German Player

A Guest Column
By Jack Troy

This is not, it is hoped, a column to end all guest columns. Cristobal, Colon, and New York are two very fetching spots, however. Cristobal sounds strangely like crystal ball, anyway. I gazed into Cristobal on the map yesterday. All I could see was Colonel Ralph McGill bouncing down the gangplank of the Destroyer Dickinson with a bunch of college boys from Georgia Tech.

The old marine, delayed a day on account of storms, had landed and the situation, in so far as Cristobal is concerned, was well in hand. The old marine and his Jacket aids should be able to control almost any given situation.

Taking another hopeful look on the map I located New York, which is something of a crystal ball of humanity, and I found would-be guest columnists, their intentions good, either lingering on after the Schmeling-Louis fight and clinching their alibis, or on their way back home.

All of which provided a situation. And, while I feel much as Eliza being pursued across the ice by the hounds, even in this heat, I'm going down swinging, if necessary.

As mothers are wont to remind erring young offspring, this extra pinch-hitting effort is going to hurt me worse than it does you.

The young man who wasn't "good enough" to play on the United States Davis cup team gave the good old U. S. L. T. A. his answer yesterday.

If tennis followers were puzzled as to why Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, was not allowed to play for his country against the Australians, just what sort of mingled emotions are they experiencing after Grant's victory over Germany's No. 2 ace at Wimbledon yesterday?

Grant was shelved in the cup matches because of his "weakness" on grass. The veteran Wilmer Allison, a fine fellow personally, but a bit beyond his peak, was given the singles assignment that rightfully belonged to Grant.

Then the Americans put on full steam ahead and lost to Australia in a breeze. They didn't have any trouble at all disposing of their chances to play in the second round. They got it over with as quickly and as gracefully as possible.

It was, of course, a shock to the U. S. L. T. A. The stuffed shirts were sure they couldn't be wrong in leaving Grant off.

Why, Grant had a weakness on grass. It seemed a vague weakness, however, for Grant had beaten Vines at his peak; Allison, Budge, Shields, Lott and others from time to time on turf. That didn't count. The U. S. L. T. A., it seems, dealt the cards from the bottom. They made out quite a case against our Mr. Grant and allowed him to sit on the bench and root for a team that was licked before it ever took the court. And so the defeat did not come as much of a surprise. Although we had never lost a first-round match on these shores.

ON THE SPOT—AND OFF AGAIN.

The stuffed shirts made no apologies afterwards for their palpable blunder and allowed Grant a trip to England with the team for what they might have considered "just the ride."

The young man who wasn't good enough for the U. S. cup team gave them his answer yesterday. The mighty atom, one of the game players in the world, spotted Heiner Henkel, Germany's Davis cup singles ace, two sets and then beat him in what was described as one of the greatest uphill triumphs ever witnessed at historic Wimbledon.

The singles assignment Grant drew was the toughest of the opening round. He was on the spot, as usual. But his game and his gameness were two factors that one can't deny. He won the last three sets to take the match.

The English probably never had seen anything like it. That is, the spectacle of a five-foot four-inch player, apparently beaten, suddenly taking the offensive, retrieving his opponent's best shots and finally driving him to cover. Grant slipped and fell all over the court, but he was up to get the shots and drive them back, as ever. He injured his wrist but went on to win, anyway.

It's a spirit that can't be discounted. And it will make tennis followers wonder anew at the stupidity of the group of stuffed shirts that control the destiny of America in Davis cup tennis.

HE MAKES THEM LOOK SILLY.

Grant's mission in life seems to be devoted to making the U. S. L. T. A. look very silly indeed. When all the time he could be making that body look wise and masterful.

But they asked for it. And I think they are due a bit of credit, at that, for allowing Grant to play Vivian McGrath, the Australian, in an exhibition match when the Americans were taking the shellacking beautiful.

Grant disposed of McGrath, considered fully as good as the regular members of the Australian team, in straight sets. That was Grant's first answer. He supplied the real answer yesterday.

If Bitsy really does have a weakness on grass, it might help other players if they could persuade him to reveal it. For if all the Americans had the supposed weakness Grant has, we might get somewhere.

THEY CAN'T OUTLAST HIM.

Bryan Grant may not win the English championship, but his type of game is just suited to carry him far in quest of the title.

The Atlanta atom is the greatest retriever in the game, a fact which has been proven time and again. Other American players try to smash their way to victory against the Europeans. But Grant uses opposite tactics.

He lets his opponents smash and simply returns their shots. He keeps on returning their best shots. Finally, they become distracted, fussed and fit to tie. They begin hitting their shots wild. And Grant goes on playing his soft-stroking game. He has no great serve, but it's hard to handle. And he is no soft touch on placements. He manages to get there and return the shots. It's most distracting. And is the reason why smashing players can get nowhere with him. Then when they try to play

BITSY SUSTAINS INJURY TO WRIST AGAINST HENKEL

Wimbledon Cheers Mighty Mite; Budge, Mako, Allison Win.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 22.—(P)—Bryan M. Grant, mighty tennis atom from Atlanta, shelved Heiner Henkel, German Davis cup star, from the All-England championships today as favorites otherwise progressed to the second round in more or less routine fashion.

Spotting the German the first two sets, Grant uncorked a savage rally that shunted Henkel to the sidelines, won the Atlanta an ovation from the crowd and carried him into the second round along with five others of the American delegation that numbered 11 when the championships began.

Once he had gotten himself organized, Grant, who was making his Wimbledon debut, was unstoppable. Covering court with the agility that has made him a redoubtable antagonist for any foe, the tiny Atlantan fired a barrage of perfectly executed ground strokes that Henkel simply could not handle and the German bowed out of the tournament, beaten 5-7, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2. Grant, slipping and falling, injured his wrist in the last game. He winced with pain, but came back brilliantly to clinch the match.

Other American victors, Donald Budge, red-headed star for Oakland, Cal., played impressively to eliminate H. A. Hare, of Great Britain, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4, but Wilmer Allison, American champion from Austin, Texas, favored his lame hip and applied no more pressure than was necessary in putting out the former English junior champion, Robert Mulliken, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

VAN RYN COPS. Joining these three in the second round were John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia; Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, and David N. Jones, former Columbia captain. Van Ryn disposed of Roland Morton, Great Britain, 6-3, 8-6, 6-2, and Mako defeated another Briton, Laurie Shaffi, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4. Jones, drawing one of the day's largest galleries on the strength of his howitzer service which British experts call faster than Big Bill Tilden's in his prime, won from E. J. Eavid, of Great Britain, 6-3, 6-1, 5-7, 6-2.

Five other Americans summarily eliminated during the first day's play. Gerald Stratford, of California, put up a fine fight against Fred Perry, of England, but the defending Wimbledon title-holder won in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1. Hal Surface, promising youngster from Kansas City, bowed to Nigel Sharpe, English veteran, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1. Three lesser tennis lights, Merriman, Cullingham, formerly of the University of South Carolina; W. L. Bree, former Harvard player from Washington, D. C., and W. W. Robertson, were the other American casualties.

With the men's field cut in half, women stars will enter the lists tomorrow with an all-British match between Dorothy Round and Betty Nuthall holding the spotlight on the center court.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fry, of Brookline, Mass., meets Marie Louise Hoss, of Germany, in the center court. Stammer, of England, favored jointly with Miss Round to reach the finals against Helen Jacobs, American champion, plays Miss Vere King, of Great Britain.

Raines Shows New Hold On Mat

Dick Raines, whom Promoter Frank Speer will lose in his fight against Casey Berger in the headline of the card which features Milo Steinborn and Dorve Roche tomorrow night at Ponce de Leon park, is featuring a new formation that is striking terror into the hearts of his opponents. It is what the 230-pound Raines calls a "pile-driver."

Once the gigantic Texan connects with this dynamic hold, the customers break for the exits. They know it's all over. Raines has been knocking off all comers with his new formation and opines as how he will spill the clever Berger in short order.

What Raines is disturbed about mostly, he says, is that he can't seem to get a main bout on one of Speer's cards, when he shows a wad of clippings he has been clipping cards all over the country for many months. Dick will no doubt kick up plenty of excitement Wednesday night. He always does.

The 30-minute opener at 8:30 o'clock will pair off Cliff Theide, a new face, and Rudy La Dixi. Tickets are on sale at Piedmont Hatters.

Medical Golf Meet Set for Wednesday

The monthly golf tournament of the Fulton County Medical Society will be held on Wednesday at the Druid Hills Golf Club. Dr. J. R. Childs and Dr. George R. Fuller will captain the two teams. After the match a losers-pair dinner will be held at the clubhouse.

GOODMAN CARDS 69.

WICHITA KAN., June 22.—(P)—Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, defending champion, turned in a par-cracking 69 today in practice for the opening of qualifying play tomorrow for the annual trans-Mississippi golf tournament. His round was three under par for the day.

McGill and Crew Reach Cristobal

The destroyer Dickinson, carrying Sports Editor Ralph McGill—no mean task considering his weight—and members of the Georgia Tech navy reserve, yesterday docked at Cristobal, Colon, according to a cablegram received by the sports department.

"All well and happy, health good, no illness or accidents," read the wire from McGill, himself. The old marine had landed and it was understood the situation was well in hand.

The Dickinson arrived in port a day late, due to storms encountered on the way.

BOULWARE WINS FIRST 2 MATCHES

Paul Guibord Upset in Intercollegiate; Morrell Is Beaten.

CHICAGO, June 22.—(P)—Paul Guibord, of Dartmouth, seeded No. 4 and considered a strong contender for the individual title, was eliminated from the singles competition as the national intercollegiate tennis championships opened at Northwestern University today.

Guibord lost to John Shostrom, of the University of Chicago, 6-4, 2-6, 6-2. Selected competitors to advance were Ernest Sutter, Tulane, No. 1; Continued on Page 19.

Branch Is Medalist In Junior Tourney

Luke Barnes, Defending Champ, Two Strokes Back With 75; Matches Today.

By Roy White.

Weldon Branch Jr., young East Lake star, won medal honors with a 73, five strokes over par, Monday morning on the Ansley Park course, in the qualifying round of the annual Atlanta junior golf tournament. Branch's 73 was unexpected and was by far a feature of the first day's play.

Luke Barnes, the defending champion, qualified with a 75, two strokes over Branch, even though he was automatically in the tourney without the preliminary round. And Barnes' score was made despite two fives on par three holes on the last nine.

First-round matches will be played this morning with the championship flight leaving the first tee starting at 9:15 o'clock. Branch, the medalist, Continued on Page 19.

Crackers and Chicks Open Series Tonight

Lynn Nelson to Hurl for Memphis; Emil Leonard May Oppose Him.

By Dave Bloom.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 22.—There will be considerable tugging and hauling at Russwood park tomorrow night when the Crackers meet the Chicks in the first of a four-game series.

The Tribesmen, reclining somewhat supinely in seventh place, will try to jerk the mantle of invincibility from the shoulders of Eddie Moore's league-leading outfit and it's a job tough enough for a Samson.

The Chicks are no Samsons in this day and time. Ever since the season started they have been slightly weak sisters and recent performances have indicated no signs of being anything else. So the task facing them is on the verge of the impossible.

Because after one slight lapse the estimable Eddie has straightened out his outfit and has them bowling over foes again, they won nine of their last 12 games which is good enough in anybody's league. They have virtually the same outfit that started the season with the exception of Peek Hamel.

The Atlantans even have a new pitcher and Moore will take the wraps off him tonight if he arrives on schedule in the morning. The newcomer is Emil Leonard, a young right-hander who was with Brooklyn last year and most of this. Leonard is with the club on option.

The Chicks will shove one of their best chunkers at the Crax in the person of Lynn Nelson. Lynn was pretty stingy with hits against a slugging Knoxville club on Friday night and may be equally as effective against the leaders. If the Chicks get pitching they have a chance, for the club can hit.

The other Cracker newcomer is Emil Malhot, who replaced Hamel in center field. He's on option from the Athletics.

Joe Hutcheson, the ex-Chick, is with the Crackers on the trip but is still recuperating from his long spring illness and will be unable to play before July 1, Manager Moore said.

Mr. and Mrs. Carson Fete Bridal Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Carson were hosts at a delightful supper-party last night at their home on Inman circle honoring their daughter, Miss Catherine Carson, and her fiancé, Robert Booth, of Atlanta, whose marriage is an important event of this afternoon. The affair followed the wedding rehearsal and assembled the wedding party.

The table in the dining room was covered with a lace cloth and was graced in the center by a silver basket filled with white bride's roses. The appointments were of silver and the decorations on the table and throughout the home featured the bridal motif.

Assisting the hosts in entertaining were Mr. Howard Moffat and Mrs. G. C. Evans. Mrs. Carson received her guests wearing yellow chiffon and Miss Carson was gowned in green chiffon.

Bevis—Pope.

FRANKLIN, Ga., June 22.—Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Linton Bevis of the marriage of their sister, Miss Martha Louise Bevis, of Atlanta, formerly of Newnan, to Robert Fulton Pope, of Atlanta, Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, performed the ceremony.

The bride chose as her only attendant her sister, Mrs. Harold Bevis, who acted as matron of honor. She wore blue triple sheer with accessories to match. Her ensemble was completed with a cluster of gardenias.

The bride and groom entered together. The bride was in navy blue crepe with accessories to match. Her only ornament was a lovely gold brooch set with pearls and diamonds, a family heirloom. Her flowers were sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

Mr. Pope holds a responsible position with Sears-Roebuck. He and his bride left by motor for Canada.

Merritt—Cavanaugh.

The marriage of Mrs. Marion Johnson Merritt and Harold Rupert Cavanaugh was solemnized on Saturday at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. John Corbett Blacklock, Dr. J. W. Johnson, of Saint Mark Methodist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of immediate families of the bridal couple.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Allan Curtis Johnson, of Atlanta, and is a graduate of Agnes Scott College. The groom is the son of Eli Cavanaugh, of Wilmington, N. C., and has been connected with the Curtis Printing Company in Atlanta for several years. He is a graduate of Duke University, and is a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity and the Capital City Club.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cavanaugh, Mr. H. K. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams, of Wilmington, N. C.

Miss Seibert's Party.

A kitchen shower was given by Miss Bette Seibert at her home on Barnett place in honor of Miss Ruth McLaughlin, bride-elect of next month. The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. W. J. Seibert, and her sister, Miss Alice Jean Seibert. In a game of heart dice Mrs. L. S. Waits made top score. The guest of honor was presented with gifts for her new kitchen.

Guests were Mesdames Henry H. McLaughlin, Martin Gifford, G. P. Carney, W. H. Echols, R. E. Echols, Thelma Hardy, L. S. Waits, Howell Dodd, Misses Eunice White, Roena Edge, Della Beveridge, Irma Martin, Roberta Sylvester, Ruth McLaughlin, Helen Echols, Gladys Echols, Juliette Edwards and Agnes Stephens.

"At Home" Party.

Misses Catherine and Mary Torrance will be at home in honor of Miss Susan Pierce, bride-elect, Miss Mary Catherine Williamson, of New York city, and Dr. Francis Torrance Williamson, of Johns Hopkins University, on Sunday evening, June 28, from 6 to 7 o'clock. Friends of the honorees are invited to call.

Miss Mary McGaughey's Visitors To Be Honored at Party Series

Seated, left to right, are Miss Mary Ann Easterlin, of Montezuma, and Miss Jane Jones, of Albany, who are the attractive guests of Miss Mary McGaughey, standing at the left, the lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGaughey. Standing at the right is Miss Boling Spalding, who will entertain at a picnic this evening at the country home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Spalding, in compliment to Miss McGaughey and her guests. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

Miss Jane Jones, of Albany, and Miss Mary Ann Easterlin, of Montezuma, are receiving much social attention as the guests of Miss Mary McGaughey at her home on Habersham road. A luncheon, tea, dinner-dance or picnic is scheduled for practically every hour of the day and night during their visit.

Miss May Haverly will entertain at luncheon today at the Piedmont Driving Club in compliment to her niece, Miss McGaughey, and her visitors. Following luncheon the guests will enjoy a swim in the club pool. This evening Miss Boling Spalding will be hostess at a picnic supper at the Spalding country home at Sandy Springs.

Prominent Social Events Given For Miss Rogers and Fiance

Several prominent social events were given yesterday for Miss Beverly Rogers and Robert Lorton, of Tulsa, Okla., whose marriage takes place tomorrow. The bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Harold Rogers, entertained at a trousseau tea at her home on Peachtree circle. Mrs. Eugene Lorton, of Tulsa, Okla., mother of the groom-elect, assisted in entertaining.

Calling during the afternoon were members of the married and unmarried social contingents. Mr. and Mrs. William K. Jenkins were hosts last evening at a dinner party at the Piedmont Driving Club honoring Miss Rogers and Mr. Lorton, the guests including members of the bridal party and out-of-town guests.

Among affairs of Sunday honoring Miss Rogers and Mr. Lorton was the al fresco buffet supper at which Mr. and Mrs. Ryburn Clay were hosts at their country home near Roswell.

The hosts were assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. Rogers, parents of the bride-elect, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lorton, of Tulsa, Okla., parents of the groom-elect.

The guests included the bridal party, out-of-town guests and a group of additional close friends of the honor guests. Miss Dorothy Shivers was hostess Sunday morning at a breakfast at the Piedmont Driving Club as another complimentary gesture to the young couple.

The hostess was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Lester L. Shivers, and her sister, Mrs. Russell McKinney, of Gastonia, N. C.

The guests for this occasion included members of the bridal party and out-of-town guests.

Vaughan—Cook. The marriage of Miss Caroline Vaughan to Ansel B. Cook, of LaGrange and Atlanta, was solemnized Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bieger, on Gordon street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ryland Knight, pastor of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church.

The marriage vows were spoken before an improvised altar decorated with flowers, ferns and candles. The bride entered with her brother, J. Robert Vaughan, by whom she was given in marriage and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Roy Little.

The bride wore a cell blue ensemble and a cluster of pink roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Cook is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Vaughn, of Carrollton, and is a sister of Miss Nell Vaughan, of Carrollton, and J. R. Vaughan, of Orlando, Fla.

The groom is the son of the late T. F. Cook and Mrs. Rosa Young Cook. He is connected with the Callaway Mills.

After the wedding trip by boat to Boston and New York, Mr. and Mrs. Cook will reside in Atlanta.

For Miss Thompson and Mr. Edwards. Miss Maude Thompson and her fiancé, George Herbert Edwards, of Cleveland, Ohio, whose marriage will be an important event of Wednesday, were complimented Sunday at the apartment party at which Miss Josephine Clayton was hostess at her home on The Prado. Miss Clayton was assisted by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Clayton.

Sunday evening Miss Thompson and Mr. Edwards were central figures at the supper party at which Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Gardner and Miss Mary Ann Carr were entertained at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Psi Sigma Officers. At a recent meeting of Beta chapter of the Psi Sigma sorority the election of officers was held, as follows: Miss Janice Wise, president; Miss Frances Lowe, vice president; Mrs. Margaret Cone, recording secretary; Miss Frances Mann, corresponding secretary; Miss Martha Gurley, treasurer; Miss Mildred Hyatt, reporter, and Miss Leon McMullan, pledge captain.

Retiring officers are Miss Graeme Strouss, president; Miss Janice Wise, vice president; Miss Hilda Reed, recording secretary; Miss Martha Gurley, corresponding secretary; Miss Graeme Strouss, reporter, and Miss Kathryn Welsh, treasurer.

The next meeting of the sorority will be held at the home of Miss Martha Gurley at 406 Clifton road, N. E., July 2.

Miss Mary Tate Weds Howard W. Harrison

The marriage of Miss Mary Tate and Howard W. Harrison, which took place in Mobile, Ala., on Saturday was an event of interest to friends in Mobile and Atlanta. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Gardiner O. Tucker in historic St. John's church at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Harrison is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tudor Tate. She received her college degree from the University of Redlands in California and was a member of the Delta Kappa Psi.

Mr. Harrison's father was the late Rev. George Hendree Harrison, whose last charge was Christ church in Pensacola, Fla. His mother, before her marriage, was Miss Ethel Watt, of Griffin. His paternal grandfather was the late beloved Colonel Z. D. Harrison, of Atlanta.

Mr. Harrison is a graduate of the School of Technology and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is connected with the Georgia Power Company.

The young couple will spend the summer at Fern Bank, the suburban home of the late Colonel Harrison, in Druid Hills.

Miss Betty Parks Is Honor Guest.

Miss Betty Parks, a lovely bride-elect of August, was honor guest at a miscellaneous shower at which Miss Virginia Rogers and Miss Dot Rogers were hostesses on Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Virginia Rogers on Gordon avenue. Mothers of the hostesses, Mrs. Lavada Rogers and Mrs. Woods Rogers, assisted in entertaining.

Among the exquisite gifts was a leather-bound album in which each guest expressed admiration for and felicitations to the honor guest. A good luck omen was a shower of rice from a large suspended white bell under which the bride-elect received her gifts. Contest prizes were won by Misses Barbara Shumate and Lillian Croft.

Present were Misses Elizabeth Freeman, Martha Embury, Barbara Shumate, Emily Lloyd, Lou Croft, Lillian Croft, Helen Thompson, Maxene Bolt, Frances Smith; Mesdames L. B. Samner, J. B. Lewis, Sr., Maryle Horne, Whidby Barrett, A. D. Powell, Fred Nash, J. B. Tuggle, Garland Embury, C. W. Freeman, Woods Rogers, Lavada Rogers and H. G. Parks.

Complimenting Miss Parks at an early date will be a shower to be given by Miss Elizabeth Freeman, a luncheon by Mrs. Bertrand Samner, and a luncheon by Mrs. Jennie Tull. Preceding Miss Parks' departure in August for Miami, where the marriage will take place at the home of her uncle, F. L. Tull, a farewell dinner will be given by several friends.

MASSAGE FOR BULGES.

In reducing, where you lose is just as important as how much you lose. As weight is removed, there are certain bulges which demand individual attention. When these bulges are removed, the direct line of pull in exercise, try massage and kneading. One of the most handy little vibrators will help you to break down fatty resistance and you may try slapping and pummeling—fat pads can't make it!

IDA JEAN KAIN, uses double action in that they soften the lumps and stimulate circulation, which aids in the disposal of waste tissue. Take the vibrator to that lump on the back of the neck, which is not easily reached by exercise. Erase this cushion of fat with massage, individual action. Let's try it: Arms above head, bend forward and backward. Be sure that you pull upward with your arms continually, holding the hips squarely to the front.

The effectiveness of the "pump-down stretch" is increased by bending the trunk sharply in the opposite side. This bowing of the trunk away from the straight line elongates your stretch. It produces the same effect achieved in the standing stretch by bending at the waist as you stretch.

Stretching while hanging from a bar pulls the waist away from the hips and is excellent for slenderizing a stodgy figure. These stretching bars are adjustable and can be put in almost any doorway.

Hit or miss exercise seldom reaches obstinate bulges. Keep your weak points in mind in the performance of each movement to include the last bulge. Exercising the strong muscles will not smooth your figure into line.

It isn't easy to rout out bunches of fat. Fat is stubborn and stretching will help you do the trick.

NANCY PAGE

The Tulip Pattern Has Many Uses

By FLORENCE LA GANKE.

The tulip pattern which Nancy worked out for the bridge table cover and which she gave to Doris, whose wedding day was getting close, had as pleased Doris that Nancy designed a larger model. She had planned originally as a quilting design but Doris said she was going to use it for plate doilies, for motifs on the end of a serving table cover and on a brook in the design of a quilt. The tulip pattern is a two-fold. First, it is exceedingly graceful and pretty, second it is easy to work since there is no break in the design of the tulip that makes the tulip, its stem and leaves. A continuous line ingeniously curved, does the trick.

In using it for a quilting pattern Nancy suggests that the design which is given working drawing size (one-quarter of the pattern) be traced onto lightweight cardboard. It will be best to complete the design of the tulip pattern so that it becomes each quarter of the circle, in turn.

Then the design may be traced. Or it may be performed by tracing paper and a tracing wheel. The tracing powder for embroidery. If possible to make, Nancy suggests that the pattern be made into a stencil. Then the design can be put on the quilt with little difficulty.

To cut a stencil, choose a sharp penknife. Lay the cardboard pattern on a wood surface that will not be ruined by a few knife marks.

Make two parallel cuts, close together along the design. At intervals lift the knife from the paper so that you have small sections of background cardboard left. Otherwise you would cut out the pattern entirely.

These little pieces are frequently called "bridles" and keep the design which is being cut out, tied to the background.

After the stencil is cut it is laid on the material. If desired, a colored lead pencil may be used. The lead is sharpened to a flat point so that it will slide along in the narrow cut-out track of pattern. The marking is done lightly.

The trace of the marking which is done with this colored pencil is done. That removes any difficulty of removing tracing marks. Ordinary lead is practically impossible to remove.

The instructions following tell you how to receive this interesting and versatile design.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

By readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write to Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

There are many women in my fix to be sure, but this doesn't make the fix any easier. I have an unthoughtful and unappreciative husband to love and three precious children to be responsible for. We both work hard and have a good living. We have plenty of everything to enjoy but when there is one-sided love the family is not complete. Why can't a man see that if he has an ideal family life he will be happy but that if he doesn't appreciate his family and is interested in other men's wives and other men's daughters the short life we have here isn't worth living. If only husbands and wives loved each other more all could be happy for the children must suffer when their fathers bring disgrace on the family.

A SINCERE WIFE AND MOTHER.

ANSWER:

You are right, my good woman, there is no earthly happiness or contentment in a home where there is a one-sided love. What matter which you do first, the applique or cross stitch, for both are fun! Here is a particularly delightful way to adorn your breakfast or refreshment linen, or a set of dish towels, using a star scrap for the applique. The leaves, done in 8-to-the-inch cross stitch, are effective in shades of green.

Novel Entertainment Is Given For Tomorrow's Bride and Groom

By Sally Forth.

THE most original forms of entertainments are being planned for June brides and grooms. Particularly was this true when last evening Mr. and Mrs. William K. Jenkins and their daughter, Sara, entertained for Beverly Rogers and Bob Lorton, whose marriage takes place Wednesday. In the social language of today the affair was the "tops." Following the dinner, given at the Piedmont Driving Club, the entire group, including members of the bridal party and wedding visitors, attended a private midnight showing at a local theater where they witnessed the world premiere of Shirley Temple's new picture.

The group enjoyed the exclusiveness of the entire theater and imagine the surprise of Beverly and Bob as the screen flashed the following: "Miss Sara Jenkins presents the first showing of Shirley Temple's new picture in compliment to Miss Beverly Rogers and Robert Lorton."

Prior to attending the show, Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins and their daughter further proved their originality and hospitality as dinner hosts. The tables were placed on the broad terrace of the club and in addition to the delicious viands served, a well-known entertainer supplied a gay program which was a fitting and enjoyable prelude to the movie.

In addition to the wedding party, Bob's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lorton, of Tulsa, Okla., were present, as were Beverly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rogers.

WHEN Marjorie Gould, who became the bride of Carroll Payne Jones at a brilliant ceremony last Saturday, awakened on her wedding morning she was greeted by a special delivery letter. The letter contained a poem that James W. Austin, father of Frances Austin, one of Marjorie's close friends, and himself an admirer of Marjorie since her baby days, had written in honor of the bride and groom. The poem, which Marjorie will always treasure, was as follows:

Gay wedding bells that ring in June
Send out their silvery tones
As Marjorie passes down the aisle
To join with Carroll Jones
And speak the vows that bind for life
Their love and truth as man and wife.

Everyone attending the wedding and the reception afterward commented on what a very calm bride Marjorie was. She chatted pleasantly with everyone and seemed to enjoy the refreshments, in spite of the fact that love is supposed to kill the appetite.

When the bride threw her wedding bouquet to her bridesmaids it was caught by lovely Louise Brown and everyone is wondering if there is any truth in the old saying that "she who catches the bouquet will be the next bride."

CLIMBED here and there... Friends bidding farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Long as they left for their home in Shelbyville, Ky., after being delightfully entertained during their stay in Atlanta. Ida Akers looking most attractive at a recent dance in a frock of white embroidered organdy. Seaton Bailey, that stealing golfer from Griffin, showing some of his Atlanta friends how the game should be played. Dr. and Mrs. Lewis Smith taking their small son, Monie, for a dip in the lake at Brookhaven.

Mrs. Virgin Honors Miss Johnson at Tea.
Mrs. J. E. Virgin was hostess recently at a tea in compliment to Miss Elizabeth Johnson, lovely bride-elect, of Decatur.

Miss Johnson Ripley presided at the punch bowl and those assisting were Mrs. J. C. Johnson, Mrs. T. G. Fleming, Mrs. C. P. Taylor, Misses Dorothy Cunningham, Betty Blodgett, Margaret Ridley and Charlotte Johnson, sister of the bride-elect.

The tea table was overlaid with a cloth of Italian cut work and lace and a beautiful arrangement of blue delphinium and yellow snapdragons formed the central decorations.

Others entertaining for Miss Johnson prior to her marriage on July 7 will be announced later.

Memphis Visitor Is Honor Guest.
Miss Helen Yates Griffin, of Memphis, Tenn., who arrived Sunday for a visit to Mr. and Mrs. M. Randolph Dodd, at their home on Dixie avenue, is being honored at a series of informal social parties.

Miss Griffin will be honor guest this evening at a swimming party and picnic at which her hosts will entertain at Glenwood Springs. Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Dodd will complement their guest with a dinner-party on Thursday she will be central figure at a theater party.

number of other social affairs are planned in compliment to this popular Tennessee visitor.

Caravan Guild.
Plans for the last meeting of this year for an extended study of the chapter of The World Caravan Guild have been changed. Instead of meeting at 7 o'clock in the clubroom, members will meet at 8 o'clock for a dinner-lecture at Black's. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock, followed by an illustrated lecture on the People and Customs of Argentina, presented by C. T. Stevens, the director. Dinner is 50 cents each.

Final plans for the July social gathering will be completed at this meeting. Entertainment arrangements have been made for a swim-party and breakfast to be held at East Lake Country Club. Lectures will be resumed this fall but members will meet at social gatherings in July and August.

Linen Shower.
On Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock the annual linen shower of the Women's Auxiliary of Emory University hospital will be held. Women of the Methodist churches from all over Atlanta and North Georgia conference contribute to this shower and all linens are exhibited at this time. The meeting will be held in the nurses' home. Refreshments will be served, which a box lunch will be enjoyed on the lawn. All women interested in this type of work are invited.

Mrs. Walter Richardson is chairman of the linen committee and Mrs. Fred E. Thomas is president of the auxiliary. Mrs. Julian Jett is chairman of luncheon arrangements.

BONUS BONDS LAND SUBJECT TO TAXES

Henson Cites Court Rulings on Property Acquired by Ex-Soldiers.

A. L. Henson, state veterans' service officer, said yesterday property acquired by veterans with bonus money is subject to state and county taxes. Henson said the question was settled by the supreme court of the United States in January, 1935, in a ruling holding the soldiers' relief act unconstitutional. The statute provided that property purchased by veterans with bonus money was exempt from taxation. Henson said the supreme court had ruled that the statute was unconstitutional because it was a tax on the property.

A negro was captured, police reported, in the act of photographing a better open at 57 Davis street, where a restaurant was being robbed. The robbery was made by a negro named McLean, who was working on the machine in a field near the restaurant.

The officer caught up on the two men in a field near the restaurant, and opened fire on them. The two men fled, and the officer followed them. One negro escaped, and the other was captured. The officer was looking for the two men who had been seen in the field near the restaurant.

He was looking for the two men who had been seen in the field near the restaurant. He was looking for the two men who had been seen in the field near the restaurant. He was looking for the two men who had been seen in the field near the restaurant.
